HISTORY

From 1828-1850 the Nassawango Iron Furnace was at it's peak. At that time, about 300 people lived and worked here.

Families tended gardens, hunted for sustenance, kept house, cooked, and cleaned.

Children did chores, went to school (sometimes), and played.
Contemporary reports paint a picture of small neat yards and flowers in bloom, amidst the noisy industry.

Start your matrimonial journey here and join our long history of bliss!
